Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 03 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Cooler but dry with clear spells for tonight.

This Evening and Tonight:
Dry for most through the evening with some sunny spells before dusk. The odd shower is still possible. Cloud clearing further overnight leading to a chillier night than of late. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Friday:
A dry day with widespread cloud in the morning breaking away throughout the day to leave plenty of sunny spells. Feeling warm, but cooler than previous days. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Scattered showers and sunshine on Saturday, before becoming drier on Sunday and Monday, although still with a few showers. Staying on the warm side.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.